THE PROPERTY AND CONSTRUCTION

Parts of the property date back to the 19th century when the premises was the Farmhouse for a local farm. In 1977 part of the property was converted to a public house with additional rooms incorporated from the farmhouse over time to meet increased demand for business. Now the property provides extensive public bar and restaurant areas with the completion of an extension in 2007. The original farmhouse building is of two storey construction under a pitched slate roof with the public areas having increased in floor area by the extension which is of single storey construction under a pitched slate roof. Adjoining the commercial parts is the original farmhouse which provides four bedroomed family accommodation, private car parking and two private garden areas. Further outside space for the commercial parts include private driveway, extensive car parking for circa 40 vehicles and beer garden.
